

Phi Alpha Kappa News Reel

Fall 2005 Edition

A tradition of Phi Alpha Kappa Christian Fraternity since 1934

Presidential Greetings

Dear Alumni and Friends of Phi Alpha Kappa,

Greetings from the active members and pledges of Phi Alpha Kappa Fraternity. I am proud to call the men I live with brothers, not only in fraternal spirit, but brothers in Christ. These men are truly men of integrity and good character and I hope you will see that as well while getting to know the current active chapter. It is already well into the fall semester and things are very busy at the Dutch House. Members are occupied with academics, social activities, and intramural sports on top of other activities. We currently have 17 actives and 7 pledges. There are many new and exciting things that this semester has brought so far.

First, we are glad to have Anthony Smith living at the house once again. After first pledging in 2002 Anthony has been called up on two separate occasions to serve our country through the United States Marine Corps. We are all happy to have our brother back this year.

Another encouraging change in the house is the establishment of the house chaplain position. It was decided by the active chapter that it would be beneficial for the house to have some sort of spiritual leader. The chaplain is primarily responsible for organizing and leading the weekly house Bible study. This should help us grow as Christians through fellowship.

We are also providing free room and board to two students who have been displaced as a result of Hurricane Katrina. Both of these students attended the University of New Orleans but have been taking classes here at the University of Michigan this semester. They both plan to return to the University of New Orleans after this semester.

I am pleased at the way things are going this semester and eagerly look forward to what the semester has in store for Phi Alpha Kappa.

God Bless,

Nathan Falstad, President

Officer Reports

Vice President Report

Greetings from the Active Chapter.

Yet another year has come upon us, and I hope this newsreel finds you in the grace and love of our Lord Jesus. We have a lot to look forward to this year and a lot to work toward as well. Thank you for your continued prayer and support.

At the first house meeting we gained two new pledges; Daniel Armstrong and Matt Jorgenson. Our third new pledge for this semester, Mark Mulder, expressed his intentions before the meeting in October. With our four lame ducks from last semester that gives us a total of 7 pledges. All were recruited through the kind words of members and alumni. The entire pledge class is a fine group of men, and I am sure all will make an excellent addition to the house.

In recent years we have seen a decline in recruitment through social events, such as Festifall, parties, and the like. We have seen time and again the effectiveness of good words from alumni and family. We strive to make the Dutch House a place that our Alumni, as well as our members, can be proud of. We are always seeking to improve our image for Christ's glory and to preserve the ideals on which this fraternity was built.

I would like to use some creative methods to get our name out on campus and prepare for winter recruitment. We have some fun ideas planned, but we would love to hear from some of you as I am sure that there have been great ideas in the past.

If you have any questions or suggestions for recruitment, please feel free to contact me at vp@phialphakappa.com or (616) 780-6647. Please keep the house in your prayers as we continue to grow closer to our Lord and Savior.

Thank You, and God Bless,

Grant Morgan

Thanks for your support

A special thanks to the alumni and friends who have contributed generously to the Dutch House Preservation Foundation. The Dutch House Preservation Foundation is a nonprofit organization (donations are tax exempt) that has been created to preserve the physical structure and building of Phi Alpha Kappa. The Dutch House Preservation Foundation is partially responsible, along with the Alumni Board, for funding major projects like the reconstruction of the third floor dormer (see the next page for details of this project). For more information about the Dutch House Preservation Foundation or the Alumni Board, please contact the president at the address above.

Sergeant-at-Arm's Report

Things at the good ole Dutch House are going well, as usual. The house is doing well and staying very clean and operating, thanks to all the members' hard work! As always, you are all welcome at the house anytime, and we love to have visitors!

3rd Floor Dormer Work Done: The biggest note of this year is that the repair work on the third floor back dormer is done! In order to pass the fire inspection all the wood that had started to rot on the dormer needed to be replaced. The windows on the back side of the house on the third floor were also replaced in this project. After a poor job initially, the contractor came out and redid all of the work this summer and did it quite well. This project has been in the works for several years due to city approval, etc., but it looks great now and will last for many years.

The new third floor dormer

Improving the 2nd and 3rd Floor hallways: If you've been to the house in the past decade or so, you know that the 2nd and 3rd floor doors and trim were painted a light brown color. This paint has been peeling for quite some time. Over the past year, the active chapter has been stripping, sanding and staining the bedroom doors back to their beautiful wood finish. We're about halfway done and look to make more progress during this year. We'd like to have the trim returned to its original state also, but that will take more money than the active chapter can afford right now. If you'd like to help us and the Alumni Board with that project financially, my contact info is below.

Couches: Most of the Great Room and the first floor are in fantastic shape due to the generosity of donors and the hard work of all the members to keep it clean, but there are two areas for improvement: the couches in both TV rooms. Over the years, many hours of camaraderie spent in front of the Big Screen TV and in the Smoker's TV Room (which is really non-smoking, like the whole house, despite the name) have caused the couches there to wear through, so we are looking to get new ones. If you would like to contribute to our couch fund, my contact info is below.

God Bless,
Sergeant-at-Arms

Business Manager Report

Let me introduce myself. My name is Joe Filcik. I'm a senior in Electrical Engineering, and I'm taking the reins of business manager from the capable hands of Brain Samuel.

Our financial situation this year is hopeful. A large amount of the credit for this goes to my predecessor, Brian, who did a great job this summer filling up several rooms that opened up unexpectedly. We now have a full house for the fall semester. We do, however, have several people who are only here for one semester. Consequently, one of our urgent needs is for people who can live here in the winter semester.

Another step that has been taken in order to put the house on course toward firmer financial footing is a larger than usual increase in rent. This increase was pressed upon us by several factors including some unforeseen liabilities incurred by the kitchen last year.

We are hopeful that the Lord will prosper our labors as we work to better this house. Your prayers and support are always greatly appreciated.

God Bless,
Joe Filcik

Whirly Ball on a Friday night

Steward Report

This fall the kitchen is off to a good start, and we've all been eating well these first weeks of school. Amy Caldwell has returned as our cook again this year, and she is doing an excellent job making us home-cooked meals every day.

The kitchen has seen a few changes this year. The old refrigerator finally died, and we had to purchase a new one. Also, we were given beautiful new dining room tables by a generous alumnus.

Dinner with the new dining room tables

We have also been able to enjoy the bounty of the fall harvest recently as we've had produce donated by some members' families. I look forward to having a productive and enjoyable remainder of the semester. God Bless!

Jordan Fennema, Steward

Social Chairman Report

We had a great time camping in Pinckney in September. We survived on hot dogs and s'mores but only after we tracked down some firewood that was "dead and down."

Cooking pancakes and bacon over the fire on the house camping trip

The Fall Costume Party was held on Friday, October 28. There was pumpkin carving, apple bobbing, dancing, and plenty of candy and snacks and women. We're all excited for that! Whirly Ball, a house favorite, was November 11th. We also had a movie night with the women of Pi Iota Chi this semester and watched Crash. As always, we're looking forward to the end of the semester that brings the guys night out and the Christmas party. All of the events are sure to be filled with fun and memories.

JJ Zeilstra, Social Chairman

Pledge Chairmen Report

This fall we swore in three new pledges, all of which are in house. They are a fun loving group who are all strong in their faith and look to further that. We also have four lame duck pledges that remain from last semester. These guys are also great people, and they are more familiar with the house. We are currently looking at perspectives for the winter 2006 pledge class.

Your Phi Alpha Kappa intramural flag football team

Athletic Chairman Report

This fall the men of Phi Alpha Kappa, while diligently pursuing their studies and upholding the high academic standard of the fraternity, have also taken the time to strengthen their sense of brotherhood by joining together in some much needed physical exertion via participation in the university's long tradition of intramural sports. To kick off the year, the guys are once again participating in soccer, a house favorite. An equally fun and exciting sport, three on three basketball, was also chosen as an activity that would be worthwhile.

Both the soccer and basketball seasons started with disappointing defeats to teams who obviously signed up for the wrong divisions. The season continued the next week with equally disappointing defeats for both teams. With only one week left before playoffs, the house knew that things had to turn around. The talent was there, but things just weren't coming together. Returning veterans such as Josh Moll, Ben Panning, and house President Nate Falstad joined with rookie stand outs Daniel Armstrong, Karl Kappler, and Craig "has-he-played-somewhere-before"

VandeVusse to form a soccer team with nearly limitless potential. With a long practice during the week preceding the final game, the team began to gel, paving the way for an impressive 3-3 tie with Independent B powerhouse Eta Kappa Nu.

The basketball team was not as fortunate, ending the regular season with yet another loss. The effort put forward was tremendous, but was not to be reflected in the scores of three meaningless regular season "warm-up" games. A number of legitimate excuses for the losses could be used, such as the absence of team star JJ Zeilstra (suffering from a severe finger injury) or the disappearance of Mike "is-he-still-on-the-team" Perry (suffering from a severe case of marriage), but the guys on this team are above excuses, so none will be mentioned here.

Playoffs were much like the regular season for the three on three basketball team. We lost our first playoff game. The single elimination playoff system used at the U of M means that our boys will have to wait till next year for another chance in three on three basketball. The soccer playoffs went better than basketball. That long practice paid off and we finally got a win in the first round. The second soccer playoff game was a hard fought fight. We held the lead for most of the game, but they scored a tying goal with a few minutes to play. We then lost in an overtime shootout. Playoffs for flag football begin after Thanksgiving and the word around campus is that nobody wants to give PhiAK any extra weeks to practice for the most important sport, flag football.

Jake DeLeeuw, Athletic Chairman

Chaplain

This year a new position in the house has been created: House Chaplain. As of right now it is a trial position, and we're hoping everything goes well so that in the April meeting it may be voted in as a permanent one.

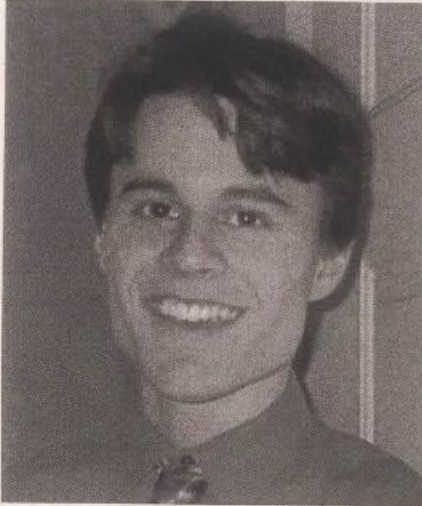

One of the main responsibilities of the House Chaplain is to take charge of the Bible study, which kicked off earlier this fall and has been going well. Some other things include setting up dinner devotions, sparking spiritual conversation and just being a spiritual leader for the younger, as well as older, guys in the house to look up to. We are still defining exactly what this position is and does. As this year progresses, I pray that God uses me to lead the house in His will.

Josh Moll, Chaplain

Meet the Pledges

These articles are written by big brothers about their first semester little brother.

Daniel David Armstrong

Daniel Armstrong is a 1st year dental student from Grand Rapids. At nineteen years of age, he is the youngest graduate student in the house and one of the youngest at the University of Michigan. In addition to being a highly disciplined student, he has many other talents such as singing, which he does with his family at church. He also enjoys jogging and playing soccer.

He has shown a welcoming and easy-going spirit since arriving at the house, bringing friends from the dental school over for lunch occasionally and chatting often with the other guys in the house. He does not lose focus however, on the most important relationship of all, and maintains an early morning rising, daily devotion, and prayer time with the Lord. We are extremely glad to have him in the house these next few years and know that God will use him in amazing ways.

-Mike Li

Matthew L. Jorgenson

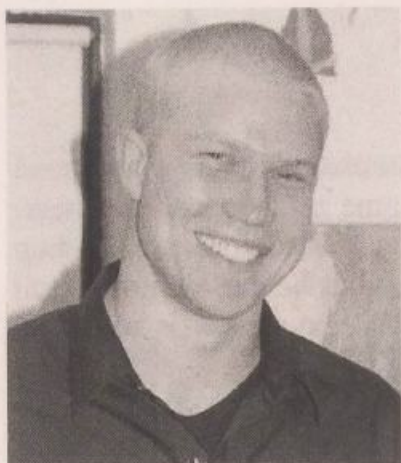

Matthew L. Jorgenson comes to Phi Alpha Kappa from Clarkston, MI. A high school friend of active-member Brian Samuel, Matt is a senior in Chemical Engineering at the U of M. Matt started this year as a boarder, but was persuaded to pledge by a few guys in the house, including his friend and partner from several Chemical Engineering classes, Josh Moll. Matt decided to pledge Phi Alpha Kappa because he thought it would be a really good way to meet the guys, who are good guys he has known through friends.

When Matt is not studying away, he likes to play video games and watch Anime (Japanese animation). Matt plans to finish his degree at the end of this year, and desires to go to grad school. We're very glad to have Matt in the house, and look forward to having him with us for the rest of this year!

-Mark Eadie

Mark Mulder

Mark Mulder hails from Albuquerque, New Mexico, and he is 22 years old. Mark is continuing tradition at the house, as he is a graduate of Calvin College. He graduated after three years with a degree in mathematics from Calvin, and is now taking premed classes at Michigan. Mark started the year off as a boarder in the house, but was persuaded to make the good choice to become a pledge. When he is not busy studying, Mark likes to read, hike, hunt, fish, and play the occasional game of racquetball. He can also be found around the house, always ready for good conversation, whatever the topic may be. We all are glad to have Mark in the house, and we all look forward to enjoying the rest of this year with him in Phi Alpha Kappa.

-Jordan Fennema

Meet the Actives

These articles are written by second semester pledges about their big brothers.

Nathan Andrew Falstad

If anyone is qualified to be president of Phi Alpha Kappa, it is Nate Falstad. Dutch at heart, and born in the United States, who cares if he's under 35 years old! He is currently a senior here at the University of Michigan studying (drum roll...) Aerospace Engineering, a.k.a. rocket science. But that's not all that takes up his time here in Michigan; lots of various involvements and pursuits paint more than the picture of him as pure genius. Nate is quite involved with leadership at University Reformed Church, around the corner from the Dutch House. Nate also does his fair share of exercising more than his hands on a pencil and calculator; he contributes a lot to the intramural sports teams at the fraternity, particularly soccer. Just this past week he ran the Chicago marathon and finished under four and a half hours! I couldn't do that unless I had my bike on me. Nate also likes to pull all nighters if his body permits him (and usually it does as long as he orders food), so if anyone needs access to him at any time, they can find him downstairs in the great room writing long equations of mass destruction. Nate also enjoys picnics on quilt blankets, long walks on the beach... if you're looking to be the next First Lady of Phi Alpha Kappa, his phone number is (###)

Joshua Martin Moll

Josh Moll has spent 4 years in the house, so he is a seasoned veteran here. He is studying to become a Chemical Engineer, which means he probably can't tell you how to market a ketchup popsicle to a person wearing all white, but he can definitely tell you that ribulosebisphosphatecarboxylaseoxygenase is a crucial enzyme for life on Earth that catalyses the first stage in photosynthesis. Josh is a very easy going guy unless you accidentally confuse his Marine Corps membership with that of an Army membership. In this case I find that a door with a lock is your best bet in eluding the most painful hug you've ever experienced. Nonetheless, I find that friendship with Josh is much more fun than it is painful. He loves athletics and at the moment he is playing for 17 and a half Intramural teams. Josh currently has a great overall season record of 42-34-1 considering that 31 of the 34 losses were on coed teams, and yea, what can you do about coed teams. And just for reference, the record shown is in terms of personal victories, not necessarily the outcome of the contest. We are happy to keep Josh around the house as long as he will stay because we know his true identity. He is, in fact, Superman. This Chemical Engineering gig is just a cover. Deep down, he enjoys burning things with his eyes, being confused with birds and planes, moving faster than speeding bullets, and changing clothes at supernatural speeds in highly public areas.

-Craig VandeVusse

Benjamin James Panning

Ben is starting his second year of membership in Phi Alpha Kappa. He is an undergraduate student studying Electrical Engineering. He grew up and still resides on occasion in Brighton MI. Ben is a typical engineer; his work is his life. Recently after hitting himself in the head repeatedly with a cardboard tube one Friday night, he described it as "the most fun I've had in a while." He wasn't always that way though. Back in high school Ben played football and ran track all four years and paid considerably less attention in class. Since then Ben has lost his ability to not care, although he still has no shame, in word or action. On cold nights you can find Ben in the Great Room studying by the fire, actually you can find him there every night, because he doesn't leave. Ben is by his own description 'visually stunning' which proves that although an engineer he has still maintained a sense of humor. He is easy to get along with and is a great asset to the house.

-Karl Kappler

Brian Scott Samuel

Brian is a fun loving guy. This is evident from his frequent jokes, jovial attitude, and the time he spends playing with Taz (his favorite aspect of the house). It also explains why he decided not to run for a house position this year, because being a Business Manager is a lot of work. Although he is a senior majoring in Electrical Engineering, much of the time he spends at the Media Union is used entertaining himself and his friends rather than studying. This is because Brian, like many other enterprising and intelligent young men, is skilled at the art of procrastination. Since Brian enjoys joking around so much, it is easy to question when he is serious. When it comes to his commitment to Campus Crusade for Christ, this house, and leading a Bible study at Couzens the answer is obvious.
